in power when governments were administered by force alone. Millionaires have grown and multiplied, and now the promise is daily made that billionaires will soon be here. And yet every man who cares to think must know that no man in this country has ever accumulated as much as one million dollars unless by the aid of the law, which in its operation, unjustly, oppressively and wrongfully took from one man the earnings of his own lator and gave them to another.

In the country, wall street and the banks may be prosperous but so may the grandees of Spata and but so may the grandees of Spata and yet the poor masses be in penury. There is a growing tendency upon the part of public men and newspapers to ignore the individual rights and individual prosperity of the masses. The great governmental and capitalistic interests that seek to justify the ignoring and overriding of individual rights for "the public good," are very dangerous to the Democratic simplicity of this republic.

In the above remedy will also prevent a cold.

and gave them to another. Every millionsire in this land to-day owes his condition to the political abuses of law; all the concentration of wealth in this land to-day results from existence of millionaires and the concentration of wealth mean and mean only that the earnings of those who labor are taken from them by operation of law, and presented to those who do not labor. And it is to be observed that those who are engaged in the concentrating business are just as ready to profit by the earnings of Republican labor as Democratic labor. Every government whose death is recorded in history, owed its death to political abuses of law. Every government that has died owed its death to the fact that the time finally came when the same result was attained by abuses of law as formerly resulted by government administered by force.

The abuse of law is the danger confronting this people. The Chicago platform of 1806 was a protest against abuses of law, and a demand that these abuses cease. And it may be said to some to far distant lands, rather the mailed hand of Spain, than the avarice of a Hanna; rather the cruel despotism of a Weyler, in all that has been said of him, than the infamy of an Alger: rather the presence of armed froops at your doors, thun the weakness of a McKinley.
